SELLING OFF.

Commence on SATURDAY, November 2nd.
Stock to be sold BY AUCTION, December 27th.

CHRISTOPHER NEWTON has received by the LANCHESTER,

Advices from his English Correspondents, of the shipment of an alarming amount of Goods, to be made in August last, accompanied by instructions to sell off the whole of the Stock on hand, in order to make room for the new Consignments, the proprietor of the wishes to impress upon the public mind, that he always adheres strictly to whatever his advertisements state, and when an announcement of selling off is made, it is not done to deceive the public, or delude them into a belief that greater bargains can be purchased than are really to be met with. And also, that goods ticketed in the window can be had in any quantities inside.

On a previous occasion a selling off was advertised—an auction was announced—and, subsequently, that the Bee-Hive would reopen with a fresh stock;—all this was fully carried out.

The pride of fashion, economy, and style,
The cause of envy, and the patron's smile;
Famed far and wide for merits just and due,
By many praised, and envied by a few.

IT is quite unnecessary for C. F. HEMINGTON to say anything in favour of his Establisment to the gentlmen of Sydney, as the multiplicity of business done here is visible to every pass of eye, and whilst such immense numbers of men can be employed on and by this Establishment, to give that satisfaction which induces gentlemen to repeat their visits over and over again, and recommend their friends, is a certain proof of universal approbation. C. F. H. respectfully tenders his warmest thanks for the unmeasured favours lavished upon him; at the same time assuring the public, that with the immense increase of business has increased his exertions and endeavours to continue their favours; and having made some necessary changes in his house, the business in future will be under his own immediate instructions, with the aid of a new Cutter, who, he is happy to say, has proved far superior to any of his former ones. The cutter Domain, Captain Anderson, put back to port yesterday for provisions, this being the third time since leaving port she has been compelled to put back through stress of weather, though once within fifty miles, and a second time seventy miles of Port Fairy, her port of destination. The Domain originally sailed for Port Fairy, Portland, and Adelaide, on the 16th ult., with thirty-six passengers, chiefly for Port Fairy, all of whom re-embark this evening to renew the attempt to conquer the obstinacy of the winds and waves. Captain Anderson, who has served a long apprenticeship to the sea-faring trade, states, that he has never before experienced such tempestuous weather, but his little vessel has heavily stood the trial, and the passengers, notwithstanding the unexpected length of their voyage, express themselves well satisfied, both with the vessel and the treatment they have received.—Port Phillip Patriot, November, 8.

THE "MARY."—The following vessels were spoken at sea by Captain Macdonald:—December 3, 1843, the barque Winslow, of New Bedford, thirty-nine months out, 1350 barrels sperm oil.—23. The ship James Loper, of Nantucket, fourteen months out, 400 barrels sperm oil. The American ship Jefferson, of Willmington, twenty-four months out, 1100 barrels sperm and 700 barrels black oil.—26. The American ship Christopher Mitchell, of Nantucket, twenty-seven months out, 1000 barrels sperm oil.—31. The Seamander, of Sydney, eleven weeks out, 50 barrels sperm oil.—January 18, 1844. La Grange, of Fairhaven, and the Bright Planet, of Sydney, ten months out, 150 barrels sperm oil.—27. The Emeline, of London, clean.—February 7. The Alpha, of Nantucket, twenty-one months out, 1900 barrels sperm oil.—17. Saw the Mars, of New Bedford.—March 1. The brig Clarence, of Sydney, five days out, clean.—16. The Arabian, of London, fifteen months out, 1650 barrels sperm oil.—May 21. Boarded the colonial whaler Caernarvon, twenty-one months out, 500 barrels sperm oil; the Caernarvon was lying at anchor in Pharoa Bay.—June 30. Spoke the Lucy Ann, of Sydney, twelve months out, 450 barrels sperm oil.—July 3. The United Kingdom, of Liverpool, bound to Bombay; and the schooner Munford, of Sydney, bound to Batavia.—8. The barque William, of Sydney, three weeks out, clean.—10. The barque Lindsays, of Sydney, twelve and a half months out, 800 barrels sperm oil.—13. The barque Woodlark, of Sydney, ten months out, 850 barrels sperm oil.—24. The brig Genii, of Sydney, thirteen months out, 450 barrels sperm oil.—September 9. The schooner Elizabeth, of Sydney, from the Bampton Shoals, bound to Sydney.—21. The American whaler Cora, of New Bedford, thirty-six and a-half months out, 1000 barrels sperm oil.

THE "PATERSON."—A few months since we reported the schooner Paterson ashore at the Richmond River; and since that period a party has been engaged in hauling her over the sandspit, and afterwards repairing her. She then took in a cargo of cedar, and left for Sydney on the 7th instant. Upon the 15th instant she arrived off Broken Bay, and at three P.M., the Captain seeing indications of a sudden squall, clewed up all the sails as quickly as possible; but before this could be effected, the gale, accompanied with hailstones, struck the vessel, and threw her upon her beam ends. Luckily the boat was stowed upon deck bottom up, and thus righted when the schooner capsized; the crew then got into her, and were pulling towards Broken Bay when the steamer Rose hove in sight, and a signal having been made she bore down and took them on board. The cutter Trial was also in sight, and as it had been observed that she had received damage from the same squall, Captain Pattison ran alongside her; but finding that she had only lost her mainsail, returned to the Paterson, and after considerable difficulty towed her upon her broadside into Broken Bay. After some exertion she was righted again, and the Rose towed her thence to Sydney, where she now lies off the Hunter River Wharf. The Rose arrived at the wharf about six o'clock on Saturday evening, and having discharged, left again for the Hunter four hours after.

THE CUTTER "TRIAL."—At daybreak on Saturday last, a cutter was discovered at anchor off the Heads, with a signal of distress flying, when the pilot at South Head, and the Water Police, repaired to her assistance, and towed her into Watson's Bay. She proved to be the Trial, Captain Cullum, who has handed us the following for insertion: "To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald. Gentlemen, On Friday last, whilst on my passage from the [illegible]ter to Sydney in the cutter Trial, upon the [illegible] off Broken Bay, at 3 P.M., I saw a [illegible] approaching, and lowered the mainsail [illegible] before we could do so, the squall [illegible] blew the sail out of the bolt [illegible]ter, the steamer Rose came to our assistance, but finding that we were not in any immediate danger, returned to the schooner Paterson, which was lying on her beam ends about a mile astern. A breeze having sprung up from the northward, we managed under our jib to arrive off the Heads of Port Jackson at about 3 A.M., and came to an anchor. At daylight we hoisted a signal of distress, and a short time after Mr. Gibson, the pilot, came off and got us under weigh, and was towing us in when we were joined by Messrs. Jackson and Bainbridge, pilots, and also by Mr. Isaac Nichols, of the Water Police Station at Camp Cove, by whose joint assistance we were towed safely into Watson's Bay. I take this opportunity of publicly thanking those gentlemen for their timely assistance, and more so for having rendered their services gratuitously.—I am, Gentlemen, yours, &c., E. CULLUM, Master of the Trial."

PORT PHILLIP.

By Saturday's mail we learn that MR. MOOR, a solicitor, had been elected MAYOR of Melbourne. The overland mail from Sydney to Melbourne is to be conveyed twice a week after the end of the current year. There is very little business before the Supreme Court this term; during the whole week no cases were set down for trial. All the Port Phillip papers are about to increase their publications from twice to three times a week, and the Gazetteer threatens to come out daily.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.—We are sorry to say that there is a very large amount of sickness now prevalent amongst the humbler classes of Sydney, as appears from the numerous list of patients attending the Dispensary. On many occasions lately the attendance has been seventy or eighty, and even more, per day. This sickness is attributable in great measure to the very changeable weather we have lately experienced, and the almost total want of [illegible]

UNEMPLOYED CLERKS.—A short time since, a [illegible] great benefit likely to result from an institution for assisting the widows and orphans of clerks, and of providing a fund to assist in their maintenance when out of employ. This letter attracted the attention of one or two gentlemen who agreed with the writer, and the result has been that a meeting of clerks and others interested is called for this evening, for the purpose of considering the matter. There is no class in society which has suffered so much within the last three years, as the numerous clerks who have been thrown out of employment by the breaking up of commercial institutions, and the general alteration in business which has taken place.

STEALING FROM THE PERSON.—On Saturday last, Robert Hunter and Thomas Brenan, both free by servitude, were committed to take their trial for stealing 12s. from the person of Mary Kain, in her house in Durand's-alley. It appeared the prisoners, the prosecutrix, and several other persons were drinking, and the latter went away; after which Brenan seized her by the throat, flung her on a bed, forced the money from her bosom, and escaped to the Red Lion public-house, whither she followed him, when Hunter, to allow Brenan time to escape by the back door, knocked her down; seeing Brenan passing along the street from the back entrance she followed him till she obtained the assistance of a constable, who lodged him in the watch-house, and afterwards took Hunter at the public-house where she had been knocked down.

HORSE-STEALING.—Some time ago, Mr. Phillip Snape, of Newtown, hired a freed man, named Smith, to proceed to the service of Mr. George Ferris Pickering, at Maneroo, in whose employ Smith had been before his return to Sydney. On Wednesday last, Mr. Snape gave Smith some cash to defray his expenses, and placing a horse, bridle, and saddle, all belonging to Mr. Pickering, under his care, despatched him from Newtown to Maneroo; but it appears Smith came straight on to Sydney, where he spent what ready cash he had in drink, and then sold the horse, value £10, together with the saddle and bridle, to a householder in Cumberland-street, for £3. Constables M'Donald and Hadson, hearing of the sale, proceeded to make some enquiries, and while the former apprehended Smith, the latter went and took Foster for receiving stolen property. On searching his house the horse was found stabled in a cellar under his house. Smith was brought before the Police Court on Friday last, and stated that the only excuse he had to offer was, being so stupidly drunk when he sold the horse, that he did not know what he was doing. He was remanded for further examination till Saturday, when Foster having called a witness who proved that he purchased it by open sale, he was discharged, and Smith committed to take his trial for horse-stealing.

PETTY LARCENIES.—John Williams, who prefers stealing to shepherding for Mr. Dangar at £14 per year with rations, was on Friday brought up at the Police Court charged with stealing about two yards of crane chain, weight about 70 lbs., and about a dozen and a half of coopers' rivets; when taken on suspicion of having stolen the property, the prisoner alleged that he had brought them up from a vessel which had been wrecked at Maitland; but it was proved he was only a few days out of gaol, where he had undergone a sentence of imprisonment in preference to fulfilling an agreement as a shepherd with Mr. Dangar. Mr. Windeyer considered the prisoner had impudence enough to have asserted that he found the chain swimming in Sydney Cove, and ordered him to be remanded, till enquiry could be made at Campbell's Wharf for an owner. The prisoner was brought up again on Saturday, when it was stated no owner had been discovered for the chain; evidence was then given to show that Williams was an habitual and reputed thief, and had no visible means of subsistence, on which he was sentenced for one month to Sydney Gaol.—Ann Riely, a notorious Sydney thief, had been apprehended in the south-end of the town on Thursday, with a pair of light-coloured tweed trousers, apparently little worn, and lately washed. The prisoner asserted she had just bought the trousers in the street from a hawker for her husband. As a matter of course she did not know the man she bought them from; since her apprehension, the constable had ascertained that just before he took her, she had been offering to sell the trousers at several houses on Brickfield-hill. She was remanded till Monday.—Thomas Ashby, discharged from gaol on Tuesday last, was charged with stealing two pots of green paint, value 12s., and two pair of shoes, the property of Mr. Dent, of Globe-street, from the Queen's Wharf, on Thursday afternoon. It appeared that the articles stolen had been left in charge of a boy on the Wharf, while some other articles were being carried to the prosecutor's residence, having been landed from the Macclesfield hulk on the same day. The prisoner was apprehended in the act of carrying away the property. He was remanded for additional evidence till Saturday, when he was again brought up, and committed to take his trial.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—We regret to state that Major St John, while riding down Elizabeth-street, about eleven o'clock yesterday morning, was thrown from his horse in that part of the street fronting the shop of Mr. Connor, druggist, into which he was immediately carried. It appears the accident occurred thus:—Major St. John rode up to the shop of Mr. Robinson, the saddler, for the purpose of having a martingal placed on the animal, a young one, and kept his seat while the martingal was being adjusted. The girths of the saddle were loosened for this purpose, and flying about the legs of the horse caused him suddenly to shy and throw his rider, who was thrown with great violence on the top of his head, and was raised from the ground in a state of insensibility. When lifted into Mr. Connor's shop, the blood was oozing from his ears and mouth. His medical attendants say he is in considerable danger. Shortly after the accident, a sofa was procured, and the insensible body of the Major was carried by six men to his residence, in New Town. We regret to state that up to a late hour last night the Major was in a very precarious state.—Port Phillip Gazetteer, November 9.

ROBBERY.—The following report was forwarded to the receiving watch-house on Saturday morning:—Between Thursday night and Friday morning, Mr. Styak, publican on the Parramatta-road, while lying asleep in his verandah, was robbed of a silver hunting watch, silver guard chain, and gold seal, value £6; his cabbage-tree hat, value 1s., was also carried off.

PIRACY.—A NOVEL CASE.—In the Court of Requests, in its £30 jurisdiction, before the Chairman and Alderman Macdermott, and Councillor Coyle, there was brought an action on Saturday last, Barlow v. Baker, to recover £30 damages for injury sustained by piracy of a print, published by the plaintiff. Mr. Nichols appeared on behalf of the plaintiff (in the absence of Mr. Dillon) and Mr. Gowland and Mr. J. R. Brenan for the defence. Mr. Nichols opened the case by stating, that it was a novel one in that or any other Court in the colony; that it arose from the circumstance that the Wilshire mayoralty of this city had been distinguished during the past year by a fête, as he hoped the present mayoralty would be, a memorial of which it was thought desirable to hand down as a matter of civic and family interest, to posterity, and in consequence Mr. Barlow, who was considerably au fait at these matters, produced an engraving, being a representation of the Mayor's fancy ball, in which there did appear various characters, such as half-sergeants—half-aldermen, whole city councillors, Turks, Lord Chancellors, and others, of which representation the defendant did procure a fresh copy, and afterwards issue a spurious edition—and for this the plaintiff claimed damages. Mr. Nichols urged upon the Court that if such transactions were sanctioned, the well-known author of the "Memoirs of Canning," the celebrated writer of the "Unpaid Magistrate," the equally distinguished author of "Humanitas," would be each and all without remedy, if any less talented men, who should put up for literary characters, were allowed to perpetrate such piracies as had in this instance been perpetrated. The case, he said, had been brought in this Court as an action upon the case, in preference to going into a superior Court for a larger amount of damages, the object being only to show the defendant, Baker, who had [illegible] not be tolerated. Mr. [illegible] Brenan, for the defence, contended first, that the plaintiff had no remedy whatever in this colony, as the statutes relating to copyright, 8 Anne Reg., 8 Geo. II., 7 Geo. III., and 17 Geo. III., did not apply, and were not in force in this colony. The learned Commissioner said, he should not dismiss the case on these points, but would reserve them. The defendant's solicitors then contended that the case was without the jurisdiction of the Court of Requests, as it was a matter of unliquidated, uncertain damages, and on this ground the case was dismissed without prejudice to either party, the Commissioner stating that he should be extremely sorry to lay down any such principle, as that publishers, no matter whether of newspapers, books, or prints, or pictures, were not to be protected in their property by law, and that he did think that the Court of Requests Act was imperfect in not allowing him to entertain actions of this sort. The plaintiff, Barlow, stated that he now had on his stone, (lithographic) the Australian newspaper of the morning, which he could publish at twopence per sheet.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

THE BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

No. 1.

To the Proprietors of Stock in the Bank of New South Wales, per favour of the Sydney Morning Herald.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—The late communications which have appeared in this paper relative to the affairs of your institution tend to show, that so long as the present constitution of your Bank exists, it is impossible for you either to have any voice in its management, or to prevent the grossest violations of your deed of settlement.

It has been proved, without travelling out of the deed, that acts have been committed that have not only had a direct tendency to frustrate its fundamental principles, but which have aimed at the stability of the Bank itself, will, if allowed to pass by unredressed, only embolden further violation, until it will be impossible to say when or where the evil may terminate. It has also been proved, from the mouth of one of the directors, that he did (and consequently can again) command a sufficient number of votes to frustrate any opinion inimical to him on the part of the local proprietary, thereby commanding the unjustifiable position of raising or depreciating the value of your stock according to his whim or caprice, than which nothing can be more dangerous. Even your recent decision, whereby 33 per cent. of your capital has been destroyed, and 17 per cent. more proposed to be refunded to you, is in my opinion incompatible with the nature of your deed, and cannot be legally done. In point of fact, there never can be a terminus to the encroachments upon your deed—encroachments that may render nugatory the agreement first entered into by you, so long as outrages like these are allowed to be perpetrated with impunity; for pray let me ask you what you have effected by your recent reduction of capital? You cannot by any act of that kind render your Bank more solvent. You cannot by that means make it pay a more profitable dividend; neither can you make your stock more valuable in the market. What therefore have you gained? In reality—nothing. Now let me tell you what you have lost, and what you are likely to lose. Such of you as at any subsequent period may choose to dispose of your stock have lost 33 per cent. of your capital: for however much this loss may be retrieved, it will be years before the shares bear in consideration of it a high market value, during which time numbers of you will have sold out either from disgust, despair, or necessity; ergo, 33 per cent. of the capital will be inevitably lost to you, and will go into the pockets of those who have the management of your Bank, or so much of it as may happen to be retrieved, of those who may be in a situation to influence the welfare of the Bank, and who, consequently, know the value of your stock. This is what you have lost. Now for what you are likely to lose. Having by your recent act given the Directors a clean slate and an overwhelming capital to play with, I can only say it will be their own fault if they do not in the course of a few years present you with a similar bill of fare to the one you have just now had to deal with, and call upon you to pay up the deficiency. Had you taken some more of the Bank capital from them, you would to the extent have shorn them of their strength; but having left them with more than they knew how to legitimately employ, it needs not any great degree of foresight to anticipate the result.

These are some of the disadvantages your late act has entailed upon you. This is the position in which you have placed yourselves. If, therefore, at any period of the existence of this Bank, remedial measures for its welfare were necessary, they certainly are now. Now is the time for action. The method has been pointed out to you. There are persons in the field willing to co-operate with you—persons who will feel a pleasure in surmounting obstacles in the way of your interests, and who only await your meeting with them for the purpose of carrying into effect the only means in your power of re-establishing your Bank upon a firm and solid basis. Or if you deem it more expedient winding up instanter, in order to prevent further abuses.

I am,
Ladies and Gentlemen,
A SHAREHOLDER.

[This letter ought to have appeared before one bearing the same signature, which was published on Saturday.—EDS.]

CRICKET.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—The season is now well advanced and there appears no sign of any match coming off. I beg therefore to trouble you with a suggestion or two which I have little doubt, if carried out, would result in several good matches, and throw some spirit at all events into the cricketing community.

It is said that the Australian Club, rendered somewhat confident by the return of their favourite bowler, have challenged the colony. Let this challenge be given publicly, and then, as the Victoria Club are not at present I believe in sufficient force to take the field, let them also publicly invite all parties willing to join in contesting this match to send in their names, and I think I may safely assert that more than sufficient volunteers would be found, from whom a really efficient eleven might be selected for that occasion. This would produce a match of great interest, second only to one other which I would likewise propose—English players against native. In this match I am aware the chances would be much in favour of the natives, as they form the best players of each of the clubs; but there are plenty of cricketers in and about Sydney who would come forward for the honour of old England to meet such a challenge, and "handle a bat and show how games were won." Hoping this may be taken up by those competent to carry it out.

I am, your obedient servant,
SIMPS.

November 15.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—Having read your paper of this morning, I was somewhat struck with letter signed "Honest Shopkeeper;" and fully coinciding in the whole of the contents of that letter, allow me to say a few words upon the same subject, which happened to myself some time back. [illegible] round trying the Inspector and his subs came [illegible] keepers, and in taking the weights and scales of shop- [illegible] in taking the weights, in my humble opinion varying came to my shop and [illegible] right or wrong, for they standard they brought [illegible] my weights by the [illegible] nounced two or three, I am [illegible] them, and pronow whether it was two or three, quite certain take them they did, to my sad mortification, however, saying they were deficient, and marking down in their book the deficiency; this I suffered, not doubting the truth of their assertion, and likewise the correctness of their standard. In a short time I was summoned to attend the Police Court, and answer for having the aforesaid weights in my possession, being contrary to the Act in such case made and provided. The first question put to me by the worthy Magistrate was, whether I pleaded guilty or not guilty? To which question I returned the following answer: that was I to plead guilty, I should be virtually condemning myself; for which reason I should wish to have the constable who took my weights sworn to the correctness of his statement, to have them tried by the standard that was kept in the Police Office, and after having been tried and found wanting, I should be put to the expense of half-a-guinea extra, to all which I readily consented, as I was fully persuaded my weights were just and correct. When lo, and behold! the standard was brought and my weights found correct, and I allowed to bring my weights home, after having been put to the degrading humility of having them taken from me. Now, Gentlemen, after having trespassed so long upon your valuable time, I will allow you and the public to draw your own conclusion upon this so glaring a persecution.

And remain, Gentlemen,
Yours, most obediently,
A GROCER.

ENGLISH EXTRACTS.

THE INCENDIARY FIRES IN SUFFOLK.

(From the Atlas, July 6.)

THE continued prevalence of incendiary fires in the agricultural counties of Essex, Suffolk, and Cambridgeshire, is beginning to attract serious attention. The Times newspaper, encouraged by the success which attended the experiment of sending down a reporter to Wales during the period of the Rebecca riots, has once more anticipated the functions of the Executive, and despatched a gentleman who may, to all intents and purposes, be styled a special commissioner, to inquire into and report upon the cause of the prevalence of so many fires in a particular district. The reports of this special commissioner, as is frequently the case, have touched upon several tender topics, and given rise to a great deal of angry recrimination. His theory of incendiarism is, that it is occasioned by discontent originating in distress, reduction of wages, and the pressure of the new poor-law. Upon this Suffolk squires and magistrates in abundance start up, to deny, with great indignation, the imputation that the labourers in their neighbourhood are badly off, or that the working of the new poor law is otherwise than an unmixed benefit for all classes. The counter-theory which they propose to explain the prevalence of a system, which for months past has kept the whole county in a state of alarm, is, that the fires are all occasioned by some one or two mysterious, designing villains, who perambulate the country with dark lanterns and lucifer boxes. One party are disposed to give the Chartists the credit of subsidising these itinerant Guy Fauxes; but their opinion is voted heretical by the staunch true-blue agricultural protectionists, a primary article of whose creed is, that Mr. Cobden is, somehow or other, at the bottom of the mischief, and that the hundred thousand pounds, collected by the League, is the fund which supplies lucifers to fire the stacks of the Suffolk farmers.

Ridiculous as these suppositions are, they appeared to receive some countenance the other evening from Sir James Graham, who gravely maintained that the occurrence of incendiary fires was generally attributable to the mischievous propensities of some one or two persons, and was totally disconnected with the existence of local distress or disaffection. The truth is, that it is exceedingly awkward for two classes of persons to admit the existence of distress as a cause of incendiarism—the advocates of the corn-law and the advocates of the poor law. The prevalence of incendiarism, unfortunately, cannot be denied any more than the fact of turnpike-gates being broken down, in Wales, by Rebecca. But to admit that this fact is symptomatic of discontent and distress, is to furnish a most dangerous argument to the opponents of the two measures which are represented as the palladium of agricultural England. If the protection to agriculture afforded by the corn-laws does not, after all, supersede the necessity of the sort of wild protection extended to the labouring class who happen to constitute at least nine-tenths of the agricultural interest, by firing their masters' corn-stacks, the most bigoted advocate of restriction can hardly maintain that it has answered its promised end. So also, with regard to the new poor law. If the amended system has not checked the demoralization of the rural districts—if it has not improved the relation between the employer and labourer—if it has not raised the latter above the condition of pauperism, what become of the fine professions which we have heard from its advocates of the incalculable good effected by it in the agricultural counties. It may have worked well for the owners and occupiers of land, but assuredly it has not worked well for agricultural England, if we are still, in 1844, at the point at which we were in 1830, when Swing stepped in to procure by incendiarism and intimidation a partial redress of the evils which could no longer be endured, and to which any more legitimate remedy was denied.

As far as all the evidence goes which has been hitherto collected, we much fear that the account given of the cause of the fires by the Times reporter is substantially correct. Instances are adduced where the averaged rate of wages for a labouring man with a family is not higher than 7s. or 8s. a week, and where, moreover, employment is uncertain and irregular. It appears also, that the fires have prevailed principally in those particular districts of the eastern counties which are notoriously the most distressed, and where the average rate of wages is lowest. In the case of the Welsh riots and of the Swing conflagrations of 1830, distress was notoriously the principal cause of the prevalence of a mutinous spirit among the peasantry, which encouraged, if it did not create, the system of illegal violence. We well recollect having been present during the memorable period of 1830, at several extensive conflagrations in the very district which is now once more the scene of similar occurrences, and the agricultural labourers, to a man, refused to touch an engine or carry a bucket of water, and cheered repeatedly as they saw their employers' stacks blaze up one after another and fall down in a glowing heap of ashes. Admitting that the actual perpetrators of the fires are few, their prevalence in a particular district is still a sure indication of the existence of this spirit of reckless and mutinous discontent among the labouring population. Crimes of this description, which bring peril without any profit, are seldom committed unless there exists some sympathy with the criminal among his own class. A man seldom hazards his life in cold blood by committing an act which he knows will be execrated by the public opinion of his fellows. But when the talk of the rustics over their beer at the public-houses, is how Farmer A, or Poor-Law Guardian B, has been served right by having his stacks fired, and how they hope that C's turn may come next as a warning to the rich not to be hard upon the poor, nothing is more likely than that some fellow of weak intellect or desperate character will act upon the hint, and that before the week is over C's barnyard will be seen some dark night illuminating the country for a mile round. This we believe to be the general history of these incendiary fires. Distress exists a long time unheard, goading the rural population into discontent. At length some casual fire or report from a neighbouring county gives the discontent a direction; incendiarism becomes the common topic of conversation, and at last plants itself as a fixed idea in the head of some discarded servant, starving outcast, or uneducated lad of weak mind, who proceeds to put it into execution. This, in turn, swells rumour and prompts others to the commission of similar crimes, and so the thing spreads until some change takes place to alleviate the distress of the district, and to divert attention.

A Connecticut Jonathan, in taking a walk with his sweetheart, came to a toll-bridge, when he honestly said, after paying his own toll (which was one cent), "come Suke, you must pay your own toll, for just as like as not I shan't have you after all."

GILCHRIST AND ALEXANDER,
6693 Lower George-street.

TO THE ELECTORS OF PORT PHILLIP.

GENTLEMEN,—Having, in my letter of the 15th ultimo, endeavoured to give expression to my acknowledgments for the honour conferred upon me by my unanimous return as a representative of your District in the Legislative Council, it now becomes my duty to inform you, that, from circumstances which you could not have anticipated, that body has adjourned its sittings without my being enabled to take my seat.

Nearly two months have thus elapsed, during which many questions of great importance to Port Phillip have been before the Council, and the vote and functions of one of your members have been placed in abeyance by an occurrence for which I hold the Executive responsible, and against which it was the first duty of that Executive to have provided.

Will it be believed in Downing-street—for already it is a subject of ridicule in the streets of Sydney, that six weeks have passed away, during which, owing to a pitiful and ill-directed economy, and the absence of common precaution on the part of those whose duty it is to look to such matters, all regular intercourse by land, between this, and the most important district of the colony, has been suspended, and the public and private interests exposed to an amount of inconvenience and injury that must have been attended with the most disastrous consequences, but for the existence of the communication by steam under an arrangement of my own. And to encourage which you so liberally taxed yourselves with 1s. extra postage—not one farthing of which has been paid by the Government up to this day.

In the ordinary course of mercantile transactions, if a bill of exchange is forwarded, a duplicate, and frequently a triplicate, is despatched by a different conveyance,—yet that common caution which actuates men in commercial affairs it appears in your case was considered extra-official; for, I ask, was it not the obvious duty of the functionaries on the spot, on hearing of the loss of the mail containing the writ, to have forwarded by the Shamrock steamer, then about to sail, the best secondary evidence of the fact of my election that was available; but no—this would have exhibited a violence of zeal scarcely to be expected under the circumstances, and the electoral privileges of the district were deemed matter of too trivial importance to suggest the necessity of any extraordinary proceeding. Nor can I learn, although the Shamrock has made several trips since the election, that any such secondary evidence even yet has been heard of.

Whilst, however, I animadvert, as I feel it my duty to do, upon the conduct of those, to whose neglect I cannot but consider my exclusion from the Council ascribable, I would remind you that the same which is matter of accident to day, may be rendered subservient to design to-morrow. I confess that I can entertain but little hope of reform under present circumstances; and would, therefore, regard the transaction to which I have called your attention, as another cogent illustration of the imperative necessity of separation, which should operate as an additional stimulus to still more vigorous and unceasing exertions on our part, until that paramount and vital object is achieved.

You will have already heard no doubt that the question of my election has been referred by the Executive to the Legislative Council, and a select committee appointed to hear evidence of the fact. I cannot conceal from you, however, that I consider this proceeding a solemn absurdity, devised at the eleventh hour; and the more so when I recollect that on a late occasion, when the presence of two official nominees of the Crown was considered essential in the Council—mere technical objections were not allowed to prevail, and the suggestion of your reverend and able member was gladly seized to leap over the gate, which could not be legitimately opened.

There is another point to which, from a careful review of the proceedings of the late session, I feel it my duty briefly to advert, namely—the necessity for a better combination and application of the strength which the Port Phillip members possess in the Council, and the advantage likely to result from a different course of tactics than those they have hitherto pursued. During the course of the session, I have observed that whilst on most occasions they assisted by speech and vote the objects of other Representatives respecting particular districts, no reciprocal or corresponding support was exhibited when questions relating to Port Phillip came under discussion, and your members have been frequently left to fight their own battle, without the aid or sympathy of those upon whose assistance they ought to have counted. From some experience, therefore, of the manner in which Parliamentary majorities are worked in the mother country, I am of opinion that the members for Port Phillip should in future husband their strength in order to render that strength effectual, and by a well-directed course of action, I feel assured that they would soon attain a formidable position in the Council, and be enabled to effect an amount of practical good for the district, which they could not hope to accomplish otherwise.

I have already informed you with that candour which was due to you, that it would be out of my power to devote much of my time to the business of the Council, and in announcing to you, therefore, that it is my intention at no distant period, to proceed to China for a short time, it will be for you to consider whether you should continue the trust which you have done me the honour already to confide in me. I must explain, however, that the object of my voyage is one which, if successful, cannot fail ultimately to prove most beneficial to Port Phillip in its commercial, pastoral, and general interests being for the purpose of endeavouring to introduce amongst the Chinese your staple commodity—Wool, and opening a market with that great nation, whose people are no less remarkable for their industry than their ingenuity.

In this enterprise I am greatly encouraged by accounts from some of the northern parts of China, to which, some time ago, I sent samples of Australian wool, and where, although it may not be immediately adopted as an article of manufacture, it is still highly approved of, and regarded by the Chinese as preferable to cotton as wadding for winter clothing. Indeed, when I consider the vast population of China, the nature of its climate, and the applicability of our wool to all the domestic wants of its inhabitants, I feel confident that ere long we may look to that country as an additional mart for the sale of our produce, in exchange for which if we were only to obtain their teas, an incalculable benefit would result from our being enabled to retain that circulating medium which has been often so fatally withdrawn for foreign objects, at the sacrifice of our commercial prosperity.

After my return from China my departure for England cannot be long postponed, and should I still occupy the honorable position in which you have placed me, it will be then for you to determine how far my services might be advantageous to the district as its representative in London, and whether my instrumentality might not be more efficaciously employed there, in obtaining relief from those grievances of which you complain, than in vain appeals through the legislature to an obdurate Executive. You have already had experience that there is little hope of redress from the local authorities, and must feel convinced that it is from the home government alone our remonstrances are likely to meet with a satisfactory response;—viewing also the magnitude of the all-absorbing question of Separation, and the necessity of properly demonstrating to Her Majesty's Government the expediency and justice of that measure, I feel assured that the personal advocacy of one having the interests of the district sincerely at heart would be productive of the best results, and with the co-operation of our new Parliamentary agent, the Honorable Francis Scott, and those members who are already associated with him on behalf of the colony, I should hope that the day of your liberation could not be long delayed.

I feel it my duty to submit these matters to your consideration; and trusting that whatever may be our future relations, you will always consider me the true and devoted friend of your interesting District and its people.

I have the honour to remain,
Gentlemen,
Your faithful and obedient servant,
B. BOYD.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our own Correspondent.)

BATHURST.

November 14.—A serious accident occurred on Friday, the 1st instant, at the Junction Gap, about three miles from Solitary Creek. The driver of a horse-team, in the employ of Mr. John Ford, of Kelso, was proceeding to Sydney in charge of a loaded dray; he had left the Solitary Creek about two o'clock that day; the same evening, about eight o'clock, Mr. William Cumming, who was proceeding to Sydney, on descending the Junction Hill, observed a dray with the horses at rest, and on going up he found the legs of a man protruding from beneath one of the wheels of the dray, and observed he was dead; on examination, he found his breast much crushed, and his brains literally dashed out, and adhering to the other wheel; as there was no one in company with the unfortunate man at the time of the accident, we have no means of ascertaining in what way it occurred.

On Thursday last, the 7th instant, the party of twenty men that had been promised by His Excellency to be forwarded to Bathurst, for repairing the fords, materially injured by the late flood, arrived here. There being no public building disposable for lodging these men, Thomas Kite, Esq., very handsomely gave up for their use some premises at Kelso that had been formerly occupied as an inn. The men commenced operations on the following day, and we may shortly expect to find our fords in a more passable state.

The wool is beginning to travel towards Sydney; the first team load we have observed this season passed through our township on Saturday last, and since, several others have followed; and the shearing has now become pretty general.

Suicide.—On Saturday last an inquest was held by J. Sutherland, Esq., Coroner, at the residence of W. H. Suttor, Esq., M.C., on the body of a man late in his employ, named M'Cormick, who put an end to his existence by stabbing himself in the breast, with a part of a pair of sheep-shears: it appeared that this man had been in a sickly state for a long time, and had been given much to despondency on that account, having often been heard to regret that he could not do as much at shearing as he had been accustomed to do, and he is supposed to have committed the rash act, being deficient in fortitude to bear up against his infirmities. From a post mortem examination of the body by Dr. Machattie, it appeared that the external wound was situated about half an inch below the sternum, the shears passed upwards and downwards, inclining towards the left side, and penetrated through the diaphragm, inferior lobe of the left lung, pericardium, and heart: the wound in the heart was about three quarters of an inch in length—he lived about eight or ten minutes after inflicting the wound, and was able to speak; it is astonishing when we consider the size of the wound in the heart, that death was not instantaneous.—Verdict, felo de se.

Hawkers' Again.—Nov. 13.—This day, Joseph Gordon appeared before the Bench on a summons, charged with a breach of the Hawkers and Pedlars Act, G. Wright, Esq., appeared for the prosecution; the defendant conducted his own case. The defendant it appeared arrived at Bathurst early last week, and a few days after a quantity of goods that he had despatched before he left Sydney, arrived; from the time of his arrival at Bathurst until yesterday morning, he had become the inmate of an inn kept by Mr. P. White; on Saturday last, he engaged Mr. John Trewren, auctioneer, to sell these goods by auction for him, defendant receiving the cash for the lots as they were knocked down—a private sale was also proved. The defendant attempted to show having become a resident, but in this he failed, as the occupancy of the premises he stated to have hired did not commence until two days after the offence he was charged with had been committed; he called but one witness, who instead of being useful to his case, made more against it than otherwise. The Police Magistrate intimated that the Bench considered a clearer case could not be made out, and he was convicted in a penalty of £10 and 15s. costs. The defendant at first gave notice of an appeal to the Quarter Sessions; but finding some difficulty in getting the necessary recognizances for prosecuting the appeal entered into, he at length intimated his intention to pay the fine. The Police Magistrate intimated to the auctioneer, that a strong dislike was felt by the Bench to the practice of night auctions—and that if he continued holding them, he would do so at the risk of having the usual certificate, necessary to a renewal of license, refused, when he applied for it; for that he, as one of the Bench, should object to the granting of it, were he to continue the practice.

We have just obtained some particulars relative to the apprehension and dispersion of a numerous gang of bushrangers, that consisted, we understand, of twelve men, regularly organised, with a leader or captain at their head, and who had been carrying on depredations for a considerable time past, on a wholesale scale, in the surrounding districts of Mudgee, Hartley, Roxburgh, and occasionally even making stretches across to the new country; two men, who had formed part of the gang, had been apprehended on a charge of robbery, and brought to Hartley: they had not long been confined in the lock-up there, before they showed symptoms of a wish "to come it," as it is termed, and intimated that they could give information as to the perpetrators of a robbery committed at Dr. Ramsay's station, several months since, and on which occasion Mr. B. Thomson, the superintendent there, was robbed of considerable property. One of these men was admitted as approver; and from information obtained from this source, five others of the gang were apprehended, and amongst them their leader or captain; some of the stolen property was also found, and we believe has been identified. Six of these men have been fully committed to take their trial, and one admitted approver, and they are now on the way up to Bathurst gaol. From the examinations and other proceedings having been had at Hartley, we are unable to give any further particulars at present. We understand that since confined at Hartley, they have made a desperate attempt at outbreak, in which they were defeated. We are further informed that on this occasion a ticket-of-leave holder, named Wiblin, acted in so meritorious a manner, that the Magistrates at Hartley either have already, or intend recommending him to His Excellency the Governor as deserving a conditional pardon.

By a gentleman just arrived here from the Lachlan, we are happy to hear that the devastation and loss of property from the late flooding of that river, is not so great as from the rumours we heard on the subject in the first instance we were led to fear they would be. We are sorry to add that he brings certain information of the loss of the lives of three men, namely, Walter Munro, John Hoy, and —— Jackson. He also mentions that several horses—nearly the sole property of a poor old man—have been destroyed; although not carried away by the flood, they had been so long immersed in water that they have nearly all died since.

In our report forwarded to you of an inquest held on a boy drowned at the Bellabula, we find that we were not quite correct. The accident did not occur at the time of the flood, but subsequently; the boy, whose name was Strickland, had been sent to the creek for a bucket of water, and was supposed to have slipped in accidentally.

Particulars of a Most Important

FREEHOLD HOUSE PROPERTY,

ADJOINING

DR. BLAND'S, M.L.C., IN PITT-STREET.

MR. STUBBS has received instructions from the proprietor, to submit to public competition

ON THE PREMISES,

On WEDNESDAY, the 27th NOVEMBER.

Sale to commence at 12 o'clock punctually,

All that most eligible and exceedingly valuable Freehold Dwelling House, with excellent apartments, detached offices, cellars, courtyards, coach-house, and stabling, standing on an area of some 4000 feet, exclusive of the very convenient and productive vegetable garden at the rear, and originally designed upon a plan for the reception of and carrying out all the comforts and enjoyments of private families, without any interruption or interference with the hotel or boarding-house department.

The following division of the rooms will give some idea of the accommodation and magnitude of the property in question:—

THE GROUND FLOOR.

The entrance hall from Pitt-street is paved with smoothed stone, and leads you to Division No. 1, containing — One very excellent parlour; Two ditto bed-rooms
Ditto No. 2, ditto — One parlour, rather large; One bed-room, adjoining Ditto No. 6, ditto — One parlour ditto; One bed-room
Cross the court-yard here to No. 9, which has one parlour and two bed-rooms, with two glass cases.

N.B.—Above these apartments are a hall, and three suitable bed-rooms.

Division No. 3, Landing-place and cupboard, with one parlour and one bed-room
Ditto No. 4, comprising — One parlour and excellent room; One bed room, two cupboards and glass cases
The above look into Pitt-street.
Ditto No. 5, ditto — One sitting-room; One parlour.

No. 1 Yard

Is very spacious, the sewerage good, stone steps lead to a very spacious cellar, brick-floored, with a well of water for family use. This must be unquestionably the coolest vault in all Sydney.

In this court-yard is also a most excellent family kitchen, with range, rack, dresser, safe, cupboards, &c.; and the additional advantage of

AN EXTRA KITCHEN,

with large oven. The whole conveniently arranged for meeting the demands of the establishment. It would seem, indeed, as if two establishments could be carried on separate and distinct, an hotel and private boarding-house; and is the one at the north end of the premises, secluded from observation, and doubly provided with all the conveniences necessary for large establishments of this kind.

No. 2 Yard

No. 3 Yard

comprises the wash-house, copper, fire place, and large loft or drying-room above. This is also very handy to the

which is some 36 by 100 feet in depth, at the rear of all.

THE COACH-HOUSE,

stabling, fowl-yard, and poultry-pens, are all designed upon the plan of meeting the requirements of family people, and show at once, as a part of one great whole, what a mint of money has been spent here one day or other.

☞ Some idea may be formed of what importance this property will be (as the best possible ground for investing capital upon), by giving an extract from official publication, which, as the money is voted for the objects referred to, clearly lays down, in the chart of improvements, PITT-STREET as a leading and main street of the city to and from

THE NEW CIRCULAR WHARF.

Colonial Architect's Report, Extracts of—

"The portion already completed comprises a linear extent of about 800 feet, and "is capable of accommodating seven vessels "broadside on, and about fourteen vessels "bow and stern on, as in the docks at "home."

———"a width of 200 feet may also be "retained as far as the line in continuation "of Pitt-street,"———

———"forming a "direct thoroughfare" to "the circular head of the Quay."———

So that the public have before their eyes not only the specified plan by Government, but "the tenders" also, for further completing this grand national improvement at the 'end of Pitt-street,' which, as a terminus, may be termed the northern link of communication with all the mercantile and shipping interests of the colony, in Wool, Horses, and Stock of every kind, intended for Exportation.

A more important duty cannot devolve upon Agents, Trustees, and Executors, than to examine the recommendations of this property.

Immediately after the Sale of the above will be put up

ALL THE ADJOINING

2. Cash on demand for all the wool directly after shearing
3. A splendid weaning and fattening country
4. Water carriage at 40 miles distance

Mr. Stubbs takes the liberty to inform intending buyers, that the William IV. steamer leaves for the Clarence River the first and third Wednesday of every month, and that it is not more than two days' journey from the steamer's wharf to the station, so that buyers have ample time to go down and examine the stock and station, and return in time for the sale.
